"It's a fun, captivating, quick read that will leave your heart pounding and a smile on your face. I went back and looked at Becky Moore's other works, and I can't wait to get started on them! Great job, Becky!"

- ★★★★★ ICING ON THE CAKE, from Romancing the Book

"I liked the rhythm of the story. I liked the level of background detail. The focus of THE RIGHT WORDS was more on the emotional development of both Jane and Lucas; it was just the right blend of personal growth and sexy romance."

- ★★★★★ THE RIGHT WORDS, from Mia, at The Romance Reviews

About the Author

Becky Moore is tall and buxom, highly educated, and culturally savvy ... well, three outta four ain't bad. She's a world traveler, problem solver, and crusader. Thankful for the love of reading she inherited from her mom, mother to a superbly cool kid, wife to the world's most handsome man. A mental-marathon runner, freelance photographer, faithful companion to Magnolia May the beagle, and a prolific reader and writer. She's a freelance writer for MacMillan Publishing's Heroes & Heartbreakers blog, under the name Dolly Sickles. She's also a member of the Romance Writers of America and her local chapter, the Heart of Carolina Romance Writers.

In her down time, and in the real world, Becky loves to spend time with her husband and son. They live in the urban wilds of central North Carolina. Becky is an avid gardener, biker, kayaker, bicyclist, knitter, and community volunteer. She spent over a dozen years working as a writer, graphic artist, photographer and PR whiz in the pharmaceutical advertising, hi-tech, performing arts, and HIV/AIDS (grantwriting) fields before venturing into her current status of full-time author. And like her favorite characters, when you close her books, Becky will be just be a fond memory.
